Archbishop's Message

St. Anthony on the Homily

01. The Homily

“Go into all the world and preach the gospel to the whole creation” (Mk. 16:15). This is the command given by the Risen Lord to the Apostles. On the day of Pentecost, the Apostles were filled by the power of the Holy Spirit and they began to proclaim the gospel. (Acts. 2:1-13). Proclamation of the Gospel is the vocation proper to the church. The church exists in order to evangelize. (cf. En. 14)

“Feed my lambs”, “tend my sheep” (Jn. 21: 15-17) is the specific command given by the Lord to St. Peter, the Head of the Apostolic College. “Take heed to yourselves and to all the flock, in which the Holy Spirit has made you Guardians” (Acts 20:28) is the admonition given by St. Paul to the elders of the church.

The Bishops and the Priests are called to feed themselves and the flock of Christ by the Word of God contained in the Holy Scriptures and in the Most Holy Eucharist. “The Parish Priest has the obligation of ensuring that the word of the God is proclaimed in its entirety to those living in the parish. He is therefore to see to it that the lay members of Christ’s faithful are instructed in the truths of faith, especially by means of the homily on Sundays and holydays of obligation and by catechetical formation” (can. 528:1)

Prayer, proclamation of the word of God, celebration of the sacraments are the important duties and functions of the Parish Priests. “The most important form of preaching is the homily, which is part of the liturgy and is reserved to a priest or deacon. In the course of the liturgical year, the mysteries of the faith and the rules of Christian living are to be expounded in the homily from the sacred text” (can. 767)

St. Anthony of Padua is a model and guide for us in our ministry of the word of God; especially in the art of preaching the homily. He compares the homily to a chariot and the four wheels of the chariot are the four readings of the liturgy on Sundays and Holydays of obligation:-

1. The gospels reading
2. The reading from the old testaments
3. The introductory versicle
4. The reading from the Epistles

The words of God are “Words of eternal life” (Jn. 6:68). The word of God is a Light to our path and a lamp to our feet (cf. Ps. 118:105). Preaching the homily is an art. It is to be learnt. The words of God need to be communicated to people in a fruitful manner. The homily is to be preached not only efficiently but also effectively. The word of God should accomplish in men that which God purposes (cf. Is. 55:11).

St. Anthony of Pauda is both an effective and efficient preacher of the word of God. He proposes the following steps for an effective and efficient way of proclaiming the homily.

- A.
- i. Reading the words of God attentively.
 - ii. Reflecting over the readings deeply.
 - iii. Understanding the words and the meaning of the reading with the help of Commentaries.
 - iv. Paying special attention to the texts in their contexts.
 - v. Praying over the words of God and invoking the special assistance of the Holy Spirit, who is the real agent of the proclamation of the word of God.
 - vi. Preparing the homily by focusing on the message to be given to the community in its concrete life-situations.
 - vii. Preparing the homily by carefully selecting the most suitable words, phrases and examples to convey the message.
 - viii. Intense Prayer is the best immediate preparation.

ix. Preaching the homily clearly, slowly, audibly and with conviction.

B. Holiness of life is the best way of preaching the homily effectively. “Modern man listens more willingly to witnesses than to teachers; and if he listens to teachers, it is because they are witnesses at the same time” (E.N.41)

- + St. Antony of Pauda read the word of God
- + He believed in the word of God
- + He practised the word of God
- + He preached the word of God

Hence, his homily was always effective. The best way to preach the gospel is to live the gospel.

C. St. Anthony of Padua places the homily in the history of salvation and in the mystery of Christ. He encourages a great devotion to the person of Christ, Christ present in the Eucharist. He promotes a tender and filial devotion to Mary. He exhorts the faithful to lead a truly Christian life according to the teaching of Christ.

He encourages the people to practice virtues such as faith, hope, humility, poverty, chastity, love of God and of the neighbours. He says humility is the mother and root of all virtues. He denounces strongly the following vices; pride, avarice and debauchery.

St. Anthony of Padua is a Saint of Prayer, of the Word of God, of the most Holy Eucharist. He is eminently a Marian saint. His life is a powerful witness of sanctity. He is a constant intercessor for the people. He is a powerful protector of the people. He is an eminent teacher of divine truths. And he is an excellent preacher of the word of God. His life brought glory to God and good to the people.

To-day people are hungering and thirsting for the word of God. People are eagerly waiting to get the messages of the gospel from us, priests and religious. Following the example of the Apostles, let us entrust to the lay persons services such as serving at the table and let us “devote ourselves to prayer and to the ministry of the word” (Acts 6:4). Following the example and instructions of St. Anthony of Padua, let us prepare well our Sundays homilies and preach them effectively and efficiently. Let us keep in mind that a short homily at weekday masses is strongly recommended (cf. Can. 767.3). Let us preach the gospel in season and out of season (2 Tim. 4:2) both by word and deed, by oral proclamation and by the witness of our holy life.

O St. Anthony of Padua, pray for us and assist us that, following your example, we may live the gospel and preach the gospel effectively.

2. Sterlite

We strongly condemn the atrocities on the anti-sterlite protestors. We condole the death of those persons who were shot dead. We express our prayerful solidarity with the victims and with the Bishop, the clergy, the religious and the laity of the Diocese of Tuticorin.

3. Accounts

Those Parish Priests and the heads of the educational institutions and estates, who have not yet submitted the accounts, are asked to submit the accounts immediately.

4. Laity Sunday

Sunday 24th June 2018 is celebrated as the Laity Sunday. The theme is: “கூட்டுப் பொறுப்பும் இணைந்த செயல்பாடும் பங்குகளில் மலர்”. Parish Priests are greatly exhorted to celebrate the Laity Sunday in a meaningful manner. Let us affirm our Laity and encourage them to be active participates both in the church and in the society.

FROM THE DESK OF VICARSWell begun half done

With appointments and transfers we move to begin the scholastic year by the grace of God in our parishes and institutions. Along with the Risen Lord our collaborators are there around us as Christ's faithful the Religious and the Brother priests with our beloved Archbishop. We can really plan, dialogue, discern and come forward with meaningful proposals and plans to build up the Local Church, being faithful to the healthy traditions of the past, the pressing present needs and the meaningful present for all.

To continue the mission of Jesus through the guidance of the Church we need to be Christ-centred and people-centred with the option for the poor. The parish pastoral councils and the finance committees are to be refined, resurrected and approved by the Local Ordinary so that there is continuity in the parishes and in the institutions. Somehow still the clergy is hesitating to share the responsibility with the laity and the religious but still let us respect the canon law and build the people as Jesus would do today. The Local church needs to be up-to-date so that we could face all the challenges from within and without.

Foster the Bond

As diocesan priests let us not leave anyone away from our fellowship for we know from experience that those who isolate are lost in the presbyterium. Each priest is very precious and we cannot keep ourselves away from them. The frequent visit to the neighbouring priests and the regular vicariate meetings and other gatherings at the diocesan level will really help all of us. To foster the bond more than any ethnic or secular values, the real union with the Lord through regular meditation and daily community mass will surely help us very much. We are also entering into the celebration of the Diocesan Synod in 2019 to remember and recall the first Synod in 1844. Accordingly there is some motivation coming through our diocesan weekly 'Sava Viabi' which could be shared with many of our people in the parishes and the institutions. Thus awareness is generated to grow in our faith and commitment. If we priests could move the entire church will move forward. May we be the fitting instruments in the church for the integral and radical renewal at the grass root level in the Local church, our beloved Archdiocese, Pondicherry-Cuddalore.

Voice from Metropolitan Matrimonial Tribunal – 92Inter-Personal Communication between Husband and Wife

Newly married couples are blissfully in love and thrilled to be on their honeymoon. Very soon they are into argument. This puts them on a slippery slope moving swiftly toward desperation. By the end of the first year of marriage, both are convinced that they not only married the wrong person, but also were condemned to a loveless marriage. Gradually, instead of expressing emotions in a healthy way couples resort to hurting each other with words. Instead of building each other up, they tear each other down, thus causing deep, emotional pain. They hurt each other so much that they see no hope for even communicating well. The despair becomes overwhelming. Such couples can learn about intentional communication. Here are some of the tools that can help couples transform their marriage.

1. Acknowledge: When problems arise, acknowledge that you are part of the problem. Take responsibility for your own words, emotions, actions, and reactions. Don't justify them by blaming them on your spouse. "All must test their own work; then that work, rather than their neighbor's work, will become a cause for pride." – Galatians 6:4-5

2. Be open for change: Try to put yourself in your spouse's shoes and be willing to go with his/her perspective and suggestions. A marriage succeeds to the extent that the husband can accept influence from his wife and vice versa. "When Jesus saw him lying there and knew that he had been there a long time, he said to him, Do you want to be made well?"-John 5:6

3. Practice Empathy: Empathy is accurately identifying the feelings and experiences of your spouse. You demonstrate empathy when you communicate an understanding of your partner's feeling in a particular situation. Try to understand your spouse's viewpoint. He or she wants to be heard and understood. When you and your spouse meet these needs, the result is more healthy communication patterns, greater intimacy, and a higher level of marital satisfaction. "Rejoice with those who rejoice, weep with those who weep" – Romans 12:15.

4. Clear Self-expression: Many assume that their partner knows their needs, feelings, and opinions even though they have never actually been verbalized. If you expect your partner to read your mindset, both of you are up for negative results-hurt, disappointment, misunderstandings. State your thoughts as clearly, honestly, and positively as you can. Don't avoid talking about something because you are afraid of what your partner will think. Focus on how something is affecting you. Try not to blame or criticize your partner while you are expressing yourself. "But speaking the truth in love, we must grow up in every way into him who is the head, into Christ." – Ephesians 4:15.

5. Have appropriate Body Language: Good communication is more about body language than actual words. You can shut down your spouse by sending the clear message by your body language that you are not interested, that you are bored, angry, or have to quit listening. Examples: Crossed arms, angry glares, tone of voice, blank stare, rolling eyes, lack of eye contact, turning your back to your spouse. Make sure that your facial expressions, body language, and the tone of your voice reflect what you are saying. As you develop an awareness of the signs and symbols of body language, you can better understand your spouse, and communicate more effectively with him or her. At the same time, your body language reveals your feelings and meanings to your spouse. "A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in a setting of silver. Like a gold ring or an ornament of gold is a wise rebuke to a listening ear." – Proverbs 25:11-12.

6. Don't dump your garbage on your spouse: Express negative feelings constructively. There will be time when you feel bitterness, resentment, disappointment or disapproval. These feelings need to be communicated in order for change to occur. But how you express these thoughts is critical. "I am really disappointed that you are working late again tonight," is very different from, "You clearly do not care one whit about me or the kids. If you did, you would not work late every night." "Be angry but do not sin; do not let the sun go down on your anger, and do not make room for the devil." Eph. 4:26-27.

7. Listen without being defensive: For a marriage to succeed, both spouses must be able to hear each other's complaints without getting defensive. This is much harder than learning how to express negative feelings effectively. "You must understand this, my beloved: let everyone be quick to listen, slow to speak, slow to anger; for your anger does not produce God's righteousness." James 1:19-20.

8. Do not keep bringing up old negative memories: When a couple is consumed with negativity, it not only affects their past but it can put their future in danger. In almost all cases there are very good and happy memories in every relationship, but if the spouses are so negative that they can't remember the good times they had, their relationship is deteriorating. "Do not remember the former things, or consider the things of old." - Isaiah 43:18

9. Focus on the positive instead of the negative: Freely express positive feelings. Most people are quicker to express negative feelings than positive ones. It is vital to the health of your marriage that you affirm your spouse. Positive feelings such as appreciation, affection, respect, admiration, approval, and warmth expressed to your spouse are like making deposits into your love account. You should have five positive deposits for every one negative. If your compliments exceed your complaints, your spouse will pay attention to your grievances. If your complaints exceed your compliments, your criticism will fall on deaf ears. "Finally, beloved, whatever is true, whatever is honorable, whatever is just, whatever is pure, whatever is pleasing, whatever is commendable, if there is any excellence and if there is anything worthy of praise, think about these things." – Philippians 4:8.

10. Speak with kindness and gentleness: When something is bothering you, bring it up gently and without blame. Be aware of the tone used when communicating problems. A mutually respectful tone - one that is neither passive nor aggressive - goes a long way in starting a productive dialogue. "A soft answer turns away wrath, but a harsh word stirs up anger." – Proverbs 15:1

11. Using "I" Messages: Try to own your feelings, by using "I" statements when communicating (e.g., I feel, I need, I want). "I" messages are very different from a "you" message. "You" messages blame and judge the other person on his/her behavior. "You" messages often trigger defensiveness or hostility towards your partner and tend to increase conflict. "The mind of the wise makes their speech judicious, and adds persuasiveness to their lips." – Proverbs 16:23

12. Use humour: Levity can go a long way when used at the right time. If you find yourself stuck in a cycle of negativity, try to lighten things up with some humour or silly behaviour. This can sometimes snap a couple out of an anger trance. Like other strategies, it's important to be thoughtful about how and when to use humour, so that your significant other doesn't feel that his/her concerns are being trivialized. "A cheerful heart is a good medicine, but a downcast spirit dries up the bones." – Proverbs 17:22.

13. Seek first to understand rather than being understood: When in conflict, one wants to be understood. How many times have you heard, "you just don't understand what I'm saying!" Of course, healthy relationships do involve understanding one another, but rather than emphasizing your own desire to be heard, try changing your focus to putting attention on understanding the other. This can really shift the relational dynamic and pave the way for more open and fresh communication. “In everything do to others as you would have them do to you; for this is the law and the prophets.” – Matthew 7:12

14. Be ready to forgive: Let your partner know that you understand his/her point of view by validating it. It may sound obvious, but don't forget to take responsibility for what you've done and apologize in necessary. “Be kind to one another, tender hearted, forgiving one another, as God in Christ has forgiven you.” Ephesians 4:32.

15. Spend quality time together: Spending time together, as quality time, is important to nurture your relationship. So, take interest in what your spouse does, and take the opportunity to spend enjoyable time together. You also need time to discuss issues or problems in your relationship. But this should not be a time for blaming, but for finding common solutions to enhance your relationship. “Therefore a man leaves his father and his mother and clings to his wife, and they become one flesh.” Genesis 2:24

16. Pray continually: Take a few moments to listen to God, express your concerns to Him and ask Him to help you reflect His relational ideas in your marriage. “Then Jesus told them a parable about their need to pray always and not to lose heart.” –Luke 18:1 (extracts from the Newsletter of Holy Cross Family Ministries, India, written by Fr. Sundar Wilson, ofm. Cap, Vol.12, no.1, March 2018, pp. 5-6). Thanking you.

01. Anbiyam

Dear Fathers, the new scholastic year is started. Let us also renew the activities of our Anbiyams. The five members team has attended the General Body Meeting of the TNBC's Commission for Anbiyam held at Coimbatore last month. Our Commission Chairman Most Rev. Dr. Amalaraj, Bishop of Ooty has animated the sessions and he is particular that we have a Vicariate Anbiyam Animation Team consisting of representative from each parish of that vicariate. So, Dear Vicars Forane, in your Vicariate Meeting, kindly form a Vicariate Anbiyam animation team headed by a young Parish Priest, so that he may work enthusiastically. And kindly inform me about this team as early as possible.

02. Commission for Evangelization

We have successfully conducted the three days Charismatic Congress, with the theme “Celebration of the Renewal of our Faith”. The Madha T.V. promotion team Rev. Fr. David, Rev. Fr. Athi Ruban, Rev. Fr. Christopher and Mr. Shaji conducted the programme excellently in the Immaculate Heart Hr. Sec. School (extension) Uppalam from 18th to 20th May, everyday from 09.30 a.m. to 05.00 p.m. Really it was a wonderful experience for thousands of people. I am very grateful to Very Rev. Fr. Pascalraj, Very Rev. Sr. Asir, Provincial, Rev. Sr. Dariya, Principal, Immaculate Hr. Sec. School, Rev. Sr. Cheeta and the members of Prayer preparatory committee of St. Xavier's Pastoral Centre and the youth and Legion of Mary of St. Xavier's Parish, Uppalam for their financial support and physical helps to conduct this Congress very successfully.

03. Synod 2019

I have uploaded the topics of the Synod in the Whatsapp group that I had created. Many have read it, some responded very positively, some negatively, most of the group members ignorant and indifferent and some took it lightly and jokingly. These reactions are quite natural. Yet we hope in the working of the Spirit of Jesus in the Catholic hierarchy and the Archbishop has come forward inspired by the Spirit of God to go for the Synod, because Catholic religion and community of our diocese should be more and more transformed into the Kingdom of God announced by our Lord Jesus Christ.

So Dear Fathers, Renewal in our Diocesan machineries, ministries, organizations, activities, administration, worship, celebrations, Vision and plannings may be a must and timely need. This is for the good of our faith and life. So Dear Fathers, I am going to send the copy of the topics to all the parishes, institutions, convents and religious houses. Let us take one month to discuss about this in your parish councils, pious associations, convent communities and let the principals of High School, Higher Secondary Schools and colleges gather the Catholic teachers and workers and present these topics and get their opinions, suggestions and clarifications and send it to me as early as possible. Kindly do it before 15th July.

04. Senate and Diocesan Pastoral Council

There will be a Senate Meeting in the month of July, so kindly get the suggestion of the vicariate fathers and sent them to me at your convenience by post or by email (fr_philo@yahoo.com). Also we are going to call for the diocesan pastoral council and the vicars foraine who have not sent the names of their vicariate team for senate, kindly send their address, phone numbers and email address (if they have).

05. Madha T.V.

On 20th June 2018, we have our periodical meeting of the Diocesan Secretaries of the Commission for Media and Social Communication in Santhome Communication Centre, Chennai. They always insist upon promoting the growth of the project of “மாதந்தோறும் மாதாவுக்கு 100 ரூபாய்” to support the running of Madha T.V. regularly. So Dear Fathers, kindly appoint somebody to collect this subscription in your parish and give their details to me and I will guide them regarding their work.

06. Krithuvar Vazhurimai Iyakkam

You must be witnessing in our catholic media and social media regarding the planned attracities on our Christian Churches and Institutions. Also we are seeing how the central religious fundamentalistic govt. and its indirect supporters of the ruling state government are treating the people's movement so violently yet we do not have a strong forum or movement to organize a demonstration except this Krithuvar Vazhurimai Iyakkam. So dear Fathers take some interest to start a branch of this Iyakkam. Kindly try to know about this and animate.

2. The First National Workshop of Dalit Christian Artists

A Three days workshop of Dalit Christian Artists was organised by Catholic Bishops Conference of India (CBCI) Office for SC/BC at Indian Social Institute, Bangalore from 19th – 21st May 2018. The workshop was inaugurated by Rev. Fr. Selva SJ, Director of Indian Social Institute, Bangalore. Rev. Fr. Devasahayaraj, National Secretary for CBCI Office for SC/BC explained the purpose and dynamics of this Workshop. Senior Artist Mr. Jyoti Sahi from Bangalore was the resource person. He motivated the artists to come out with Dalit Art through Biblical concepts. It was the first ever Workshop organised for the Dalit Christian Artists. The workshop was to create and promote the Dalit Art which is so rich and forgotten along the history. There were 20 participants from across the country mostly represented from Andhra Pradesh, Pune, Karnataka, Pondicherry and Tamil Nadu states. The participants are of Art College Students, Professional Artists and Experienced Artists of different age group.

On the very first day, Mr Jyoti Sahi spoke elaborately on Religious Art particularly Biblical Art to the participants. On the Last Day of the Workshop, the Paintings drawn by the participants were exhibited to the visitors and art lovers. The exhibition was inaugurated by Mr. Inba Jeyakumar, General Secretary of Students Christian Movement. He insisted that we should make use of Dalit Art as a weapon for Dalit Liberation. Fr. Arputharaj, Secretary SC/ST Commission, Pondicherry also appreciated the effort of Artists in the Social issues. The viewers were amazed on looking at the paintings of the participants drawn within a short period of time of this workshop. Sr Robancy, the program Co-coordinator for CBCI Office for SC/BC, thanked the artists and the guests.
